Supporting Women Leaders in the Community

Submitted by Ibork on November 13, 2015

An incredibly motivated group of local women decided to start teaching themselves how to read and write Bambara, their local language. The local women's group, called Muso Jigi (Supporting Women), focuses on supporting women as leaders in their communities through fostering education, sustainable agriculture, and business skills among other things. Peace Corps volunteers work in Feed the Future countries to support economic development and agriculture activities, helping communities reduce poverty and improve their food security. Photo by Lisa Bacon, Peace Corps Mali
